

Library Resources Proposed for Cancellation by Subject Area

The following chart shows the electronic resources and print periodicals proposed for cancellation next fiscal year should we need to cut up to $450,000 from the collection budget. This is a preliminary proposal, not the final list. Most of these titles have renewal dates in late September or later in the fiscal year, so we have time to have a more thorough conversation before finalizing the cancellation list. In some cases, however, the renewal period begins July 1, 2018. These titles are shaded in red. Our intention is to proceed with cancelling these titles in July with the understanding that should the budget situation improve, or as the result of further conversations, some of the titles on this “early cut” list may be reinstated in the fall. The risk to this approach is that there may be some discontinuity of access to these titles until such time as they may be reinstated.

IDENTIFICATION OF ELECTRONIC RESOURCES AND PRINT PERIODICALS FOR PROPOSED CANCELLATION

To identify electronic resources (databases and journals) and print periodicals for potential cancellation, we started by reviewing — and in most cases proposed to cancel — electronic and print periodicals we subscribe to with a cost-per-use of over $75. Next, each subject area was given an amount to cut based on the subject budget’s percentage of the overall electronic resources and print periodicals budget. Resources were identified for cancellation based on a review of cost, rate of inflation, use of the resources across campus, the extent to which the databases’ content overlapped with the content in other resources, and our ability to get the articles from a journal through another resource.

Resources in red will be cancelled prior to July 1.
